TODAY'S PROGRAM

Steve Jones was our host for today, and Steve provided an outstanding student song leader, John Eisemann, for today's meeting. Rotary met at Knox College today for our annual update on the nationally-recognized Knox College Honors Program. This program provides exceptional students with a special opportunity to do serious research in their specialty. Four students spoke today. The students are listed with their faculty advisors and a short description of their study topic.

Corinne Butzen studied dolphin behavior. Her advisor Jennifer Templeton was not present.

John Eisemann's advisor was Bruce Polay for his orchestration project.

Kostanca Dhima discussed Albania's transition from communism. Her advisor, Karen Kampwirth, was present to hear the report.

Evan Temchin showed examples from four of his photographic assignments. Faculty advisor, Mike Godsil, guided Evan's studies in photojournalism.

Tom Foley plans to be set up to take individual photographs at next week's meeting from 11:30 until 1:30. These pictures are to be used in the printed handbook as well as in a new website roster. Now is the time to get a new picture to replace the one that has been in the book for years. Tom will close down during Sam-O's program, but it's OK to have your picture taken during the business portion of the meeting.

FUTURE PROGRAMS

- May 20 Sam-O will tell us about her home in Thailand and about her year in Galesburg.
- May 27 The top ten Galesburg High School graduating seniors will be our guests.
